A NUTS & BOLTS SOLUTION FOR UNITED FASTENER COMPANY

Secure Scalable Document Management

Success Story

THE COMPANY

United Fastener Company, Inc., is an international distributor of nuts, bolts, rivets, and other similar hardware to the aerospace industry. The company has offices in California, Arizona, Texas, Florida and the United Kingdom, with anticipated 1998 gross sales of $25 million.

THE CHALLENGE

At United Fastener, each order must be shipped to the customer along with copies of certification documents and purchase orders. In the past, this massive paperwork was stored in filing cabinets.

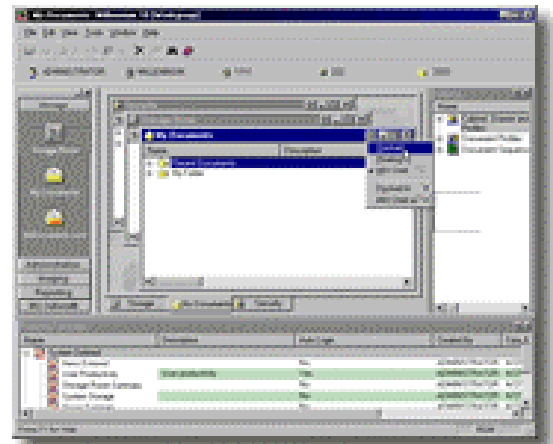

For each order, employees had to search through the files to locate the appropriate documents and make photocopies. In addition, as in most paper-intensive offices, documents were often lost or misfiled. All in all, the process consumed a tremendous amount of time and labor throughout the company each workday.

THE SOLUTION

With Millennium on board, United Fasteners is able to scan all paperwork that comes in with the hardware it purchases. Now, instead of endlessly searching paper files, an employee can instantly locate the appropriate documents on their computer and print them out. No photocopies need to be made. Documents are no longer lost or misfiled.

THE BOTTOM LINE

According to United Fastener's MIS Director, Gerry Placa, Millennium has significantly improved company productivity and profitability, without a lengthy adjustment period. In fact, staff members were comfortable scanning and using the software after just one half-day training session. "The Win 95/NT interface has made the transition to Millennium very smooth," he notes. "Already comfortable with Windows 95 programs, our users have learned and utilized the system in a short amount of time. This interface was a major selling point for United Fasteners."

An enhanced user interface based on Microsoft's Outlook® that makes working with Millennium 10 easier than ever. Tile or Cascade multiple files/windows on your screen simultaneously.
